

Colourful Stones

The Govan stones were once brightly painted. They would have been colourful and eye-catching, and the colours would have added detail to the carvings.

Try this...

Imagine what the Govan stones pictured here might have looked like when they were painted.

What colours might have been important to the people of Govan over 1,000 years ago?

Colour in the stones to see what they may have looked like when they were first carved.